Dulles Laughs Off Claim Russians Have U. S. Code

Associated Press

Intelligence Chief Allen W. Dulles was quoted yesterday as having laughingly dismissed a reported claim by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that the Soviets have gained access to secret United States codes.

A spokesman for Dulles said the head of the Central Intelligence Agency was asked about the reported claim by Khrushchev several days ago, before Dulles left on a trip to Canada.

Dulles laughingly reserved comment and added, "Mr. Khrushchev is quite a propagandist, isn't he?" the spokesman said.

Victor M. Carter, president of Republic Studios, said Khrushchev made the claim during his visit to Los Angeles.

Carter passed Khrushchev's remarks on to the CIA.

Carter said Khrushchev told him:

"Your agents in Europe and the Middle East give us your code books and then we send false information back to you through your codes."

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations who toured with Khrushchev as President Eisenhower's personal representative, declined comment when asked about this on a television show Sunday.

Yesterday the State Department and CIA also declined any comment that would confirm or deny whether the Soviets have obtained any secret United States codes.
